I think as a teacher, I don't think I've ever worked harder than when I do YPI. But I never feel more fulfilled and rewarded than when I'm working with kids doing YPI from the first phone call, where they actually talk to someone at their charity, and they're so excited. They just, their faces light up and it suddenly becomes real for them. And they visit their charities and they see this whole other side and they come back and they're excited to tell you about all of these great things that they that they saw and that they experienced. As a teacher to be on, kind of on the outside looking in at what they're experiencing is is really, really cool.
